Selectboard Notes
Christine Long, Member

Post on your refrigerator:
If you experience a power outage, immediately call the National Grid hotline, 1-800-465-1212. If you have trouble with your phone service, immediately call Verizon customer service, 1-978-555-1611. If you can’t call from home, use a cell phone or contact the companies from another location.

Both companies report that calls help them pinpoint problems and speed up the restoration of service. If only scattered customers call, analysis is much more difficult. After the outage of both services in town this fall, the Select Board received numerous calls themselves, and chairwoman Linda Alger wrote to both companies, with copies going to Royalston’s representatives in Boston and Washington. That letter led to the information above.

Other news: The Select Board continues to meet with employees and town boards on the budget for Fiscal Year 2013. Dates about the opening and closing of the warrant for annual town meeting will be announced soon.

The Board would also like to remind users of town hall to leave it as you find it: with the windows closed, the heat turned down, the chairs and tables returned to their usual places, and the lights turned off. A final check by the lead person would be helpful. During some recent use, a restroom sink was damaged. Money spent on this kind of repair is not available for other purposes.

Royalston’s 250th Anniversary Celebration Committee

Don’t miss the Souper Bowl family event. Ice skate, play cards and Wii games and enjoy bottomless bowls of homemade soups, chowders and chilis at the Royalston Figh and Game Club on Rt 68 in South Royalston. $12 adults/ $6 children benefits the Royalston 250th Anniversary Committee. For information or to support the effort by donating a pot of soup, call Kayla at 978-895-1070. Royalston t-shirts will be for sale.

The committee has also put together a raffle basket which includes these products and more: a cord of wood, maple syrup, $50 gift card from Market Basket, Edible Arrangements certificate and Avon products. Tickets $1 each or 6 for $5. Call Geoff Newton 978-249-3726 for more information.

Royalston Cemetery Commission

Which Gate Should be Used as a Model?
Public Input Sought

The Royalston Cemetery Commission has completed the new fencing around Hillside Cemetery at the head of the South Village, thanks to Community Preservation Act (CPA) funding. They are currently investigating repairs of the fencing around Riverside Cemetery, specifically the gateway. The Commission would like opinions from the public about which entryway should be rebuilt – the original one with the overhead sign, the last one, which is a less elaborate entryway or with a modern version that matches similar gates at other locations. Their intent is to apply to the CPA for funding to continue their restoration work. Public comment is invited; speak with Commissioners Roy A. Smith, Jr., Wayne R. Newton, or Roland G. Hamel, or leave a message at 978-249-4587.
Fire Department, Burning Permits

Chief Keith R. Newton

The 2012 Open Burning Season is now in effect. The permit process is simple and convenient. The Fire Department meets on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th Monday of every month 7:00 P.M. at Station #1. Fire Deputy James M. Putney will be available to issue permits to those that apply in person on one of these dates and times. Please know that open burning is a privilege and should not be taken lightly.

On the day you’re intending to burn, call the recorded telephone line at the Fire Department (978-249-8138) and clearly state your name, location, permit number and call-back number. A daily recording will give the status for burning on that day. The decision to allow burning will be determined by many factors, including air quality, determined by the District Fire Warden from the Commonwealth of Mass. All non-permitted fires are illegal and will be subject to fines.

Thank you in advance for those that make this a safe burning season.

Town Clerk News

Board of Health News

Phil Leger, chairperson

Welcome to the New Year. The “open on Fridays” experiment at the transfer station was not very popular except for the Fridays after Thanksgiving and Christmas. Going forward, those will probably be the only Fridays open. In the meantime, the only hours are Saturdays 8am-3pm.

Can’t make paper out of brownies, pizza, feminine hygiene products, sandwiches, or ink cartridges. These were some of the items found recently in the paper roll off. (Composting is generally encouraged, but just not in the paper roll off).

Please, please, please watch what is being put in the recycling roll offs. You are not recycling if you put trash or the wrong items in the containers. If it’s in your hand, put it in the right can. It’s easy. Two separations: 1.) anything paper or cardboard that can tear without styrofoam or other non-paper material. 2.) Rinsed and squished bottles, cans, plastic, milk cartons, and juice boxes. Don’t break the glass. No light bulbs, ceramics, window glass, or pyrex.

Royalston Luncheon Club

Warm and brighten the cold, dark days of winter by joining the Royalston Luncheon Club some Wednesday for a hot meal and great company. The meal is served at 11:30, but the doors open earlier for those who wish to visit, play cards or work on their craft projects. Take chances at the First Wednesdays’ Chinese Auctions; participate in Second Wednesday health clinics; and pick up Western MA Food Bank “Brown Bag” commodities on fourth Wednesdays. At $2/senior and $2.50/senior-to-be, the meals are affordable, too! Call Betty Woodbury at 978-249-9656 by Monday to reserve a seat for the next Wednesday’s meal.

Representative’s Hours

Representative Rich Bastien held office hours January 19 at the Town Hall, along with Brian M. Eno, legislative aide for Representative Denise Andrews, Royalston’s rep under redistricting. Bastien is keeping Representative Andrew’s office involved in Royalston issues to make the future transition as seamless as possible.

Royalston Selectmen Linda Alger, Jack Morse and Chris Long all stopped in for a visit, along with eight other residents. Topics included CPA funding, Bastien’s proposal to repeal the bottle bill, education, and highway signage for area businesses. Bastien also presented information on a “Habitual Offender” bill he is supporting, information on a proposal to make utility companies grant two days’ credit for every eight hours customers are without service, and agreed to look into an issue a resident is having with the Department of Development Disabilities.

Mr. Eno participated in the discussions and relayed details to Representative Andrews. Representative Bastien expects to hold another session in Royalston in March. Residents are invited to contact him before that time on Facebook, at www.RichBastien.com or at his Gardner Office, 978-630-1776.

Tai Chi with Rebecca Krause-Hardie continues Tuesdays from 6-7 pm. Everyone is welcome at this free program sponsored by the Friends of the Library. For more info, contact 978-575-1454.

Zumba with Kristen Killay continues on Mondays at 6 pm throughout the winter at Town Hall. Sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Donations welcome.

Let’s Go To The Zoo:
February Vacation Live Animal Presentation
Thanks to the Royalston Cultural Council and the Friends of the Library, the Southwick Zoo Zoomobile presented by the folks at Earth Limited will be coming to the Royalston Town Hall on Wednesday, February 22 at 1:30 p.m. Earth Limited will load the Zoomobile with animals which will include tortoises, lizards, snakes, alligator, large parrot, binturong, kangaroo, bush baby, African porcupine, chinchilla, ferret, and hedgehog and maybe a surprise or two. The purpose of Earth Limited is to educate people about environmental issues such as animal ecology, endangered species, and threatened habitats. Their education methods include the extensive use of live animal presentations and hands-on activities. This is an incredible opportunity to get close and learn about a large variety of animals.

Cross Culture Club for Kids (and interested adults)
Interact with the world without leaving Royalston. Cross Culture Club returns to the library on Thursdays from 3:30 - 4:30. It’s free; most presentations include a geography lesson, a slide show and a fun activity; international snacks are provided. Students from RCS can take the bus with a permission slip and be picked up at the library. Pre-registration by calling 978-249-3572 is helpful.

March 8  Nepal/ Bhutan with Bishnu and Akash Darjee

Harmonic A Capella Concert
and Harmonics Workshop by Weave
On Saturday, February 25, at 7:00 p.m. the harmonic (throat) singing group, Weave, will present a harmonic vocal concert followed by a harmonics singing workshop at the Royalston Town Hall. In harmonic singing, the performer manipulates the resonances created as air travels from the lungs, past the vocal folds, and out the lips to produce a melody. The singing is improvisatory and ranges over the entire vocal spectrum of human expression and experience. Weave draws from the musical traditions that have arisen from the global rhythms of work, travel, and ceremony. It explores communication and the plurality of human experience.

Weave has sung together for 15 years and its members are quite illustrious. One member is Royalston’s esteemed Tax Collector, Rebecca Krause-Hardie, a world class musician and vocalist. She is a graduate of Juilliard and in 1982 joined David Hykes’ world renowned group, The Harmonic Choir, and sang on three recordings, including the landmark CD, Hearing Solar Winds. Another member of the group, Timothy Hill, has been appointed by the New York Times as “a virtuoso of the Tibetan chanting technique”. Mr. Hill has recorded many times and given workshops on throat singing around the world.

Those wishing to remain after the concert can partake in a harmonics workshop and try to produce sounds like they have never created before.

Bring the family to enjoy this extraordinarily unique concert and take your vocal cords to new horizons. Refreshments will be provided by the Friends of the Phinehas S. Newton Library.
Book Discussion Group
The new Book Discussion Group met in January to discuss the Suzanne Collin’s Hunger Games. Participants drew interesting thoughts about dystopias, hero journeys, the ways youth manage power, love trangles, popular culture, and Roman gladiator imagery from this young adult novel. The selection for February is Laura Hillenbrand’s Unbroken, the true story of Louis Zamperini, who not only competed in the Berlin Olympics, but later barely survived WWII undergoing a grueling ordeal adrift on a life raft, followed by internment in a Japanese prisoner of war camp. A reading group set of books will be ordered through interlibrary loan. The meeting to discuss this book will be at the library on Monday, February 13 from 4:30 - 5:45. Thereafter, meetings will generally be held on 3rd Mondays at 4:30. All are welcome in the group. Call the library for more information.

Royalton Review of Books

Diary of a Wimpy Kid: Cabin Fever by Jeff Kinney, reviewed by Molly Divoll. The book was about how Greg gets stuck inside with his family for Christmas and they think they lose power but then they find out that Manny, Greg’s little brother, turned off the power in every room in the house except his room. I think it is a great book and all kids from 7 to 13 should read it.

Cocktail Hour Under the Tree of Forgetfulness by Alexander Fuller, reviewed by Nancy Ferron. I had to write a note about this very interesting true story about the author’s eccentric, somewhat crazy mother’s life in Africa. The family, country, history, and politics of early 20th Century Africa, all combine in a dramatic, tragic, funny, and compelling story.

Sawicki’s Polenta Pizza in a Cast Iron Skillet

_Bert and Paula live at the top of Frye Hill with their charming bairn, Rhea and Stashu. Paula is the new substitute librarian at the Phinehas Newton Library; she likes the job, especially during pre-school playgroup. Bert and Paula are careful about what they eat and report, “This is an easy dinner that the family loves and is pretty quick for homemade pizza...no waiting for the dough to rise!”_

Ingredients
- 1/4 t salt
- Olive oil
- 3/4 cups Polenta
- 3 Cups water or chicken stock
- 1 Cup Pizza sauce
- 2 Cups shredded Mozzarella
- Grated Parmesan as much as you like..I like a lot.
- Additional Toppings - I like to add: Thinly sliced red onions Pepperoni Whatever is in the fridge

Preheat oven to 400°F.

1. Heat a 12 inch cast iron skillet in oven, when hot pour in a tablespoon of olive oil to coat pan.
2. While pan is heating, bring water or stock to a boil, add salt and add polenta in a steady, but slow stream while whisking to prevent lumps. Cook 5-10 minutes until thick.
3. Pour polenta into skillet and spread evenly, bake 25-30 minutes, or until beginning to brown on sides.
4. Remove skillet from oven and spread sauce then add cheese. Add whatever toppings you like.
5. Return to oven, and bake another 20-30 minutes more, or until cheese is melted and bubbly and the edges are crisp. Cool 10 minutes before slicing and serving.

Random Act of Kindness Day

_Mary C. Barclay_

Each year, February 17 is designated as Random Acts of Kindness Day and provides an opportunity for each of us – even kids – to make life better for everyone. The acts needn’t be big and flashy or expensive, just nice and unexpected. Ideas? Make sure your elderly neighbor’s walkway is well-shoveled and sanded; drop by your kids’ school with a plate of goodies for the teachers’ room; send a note to an underappreciated public servant. The do-er and recipient of random acts of kindness BOTH benefit, and the ripple effect can last for days.

T.O.P.S.

Several Royalston residents are casting smaller shadows these days, thanks to The Royalston TOPS Chapter (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) group, which meets Thursdays from 5:30 – 6:30 p.m. in the parlor at the Second Congregational Church. It’s more about refashioning habits than it is dieting. Great way to start the new year.

Contact Joyce at 978-249-8966 or Luann at 978-249-8746 for more details.

Pass the Winter with Local Live Music: Royalston’s Open Mic Series - Friday, February 3

January was a rockin open mic with “Nexus” as house band. This 6 piece band from the North Quabbin had the all ages crowd dancing until closing. Excellent sets from “Big Mike and the Wiseguys”, the “Side Street band”, and “Linq” w/ special guest, “Udu Girl”.

The Royalston Cultural Council’s award winning Open Mic series continues the first Friday of the month through April from 7-10pm. February’s house band will be local favorite “RoadKill Orchestra”. Come early and stay late. The homemade lasagna sold out in the first hour in January. Munchies and sodas and hot drinks available for sale.

Open Mic is free, but donations are cheerfully accepted. The town hall sound system has been purchased over the years from sales and donations from the open mic and summer music fest among other events.

You can stay home and stoke that cabin fever or come to open mic and dance or listen it away.

Warwick Blues Night – Saturday, February 11

Feeling the winter doldrums? Cabin fever? Wishing something exciting would happen? Go West, Royalstonians.

Head to Warwick’s Town Hall for its annual Blues Night featuring great homemade pizza, live music and non-stop dancing.

At 7:00 Ottomatic Slim will take the stage. This band of veteran performers “stirs up the blues with a splash of R&B and a twist of rock”. The band takes pride in always providing a top-notch show of high-energy, cutting edge, electric-blues. For years frontman / harp player Otto Lenz has been lighting up the Northeast and Canadian blues scene with explosive performances and receiving rave reviews. On lead guitar: Mike Patterson. Rhythm section: Matt McManoman on bass and Rich Blake on drums. Check out the band at http://www.ottomaticslim.net

The doors open at 6:00 pm with a world-class pizza dinner provided by the Trinitarian Congregational Church. Choose from an amazing variety of pizza at $3/slice. Proceeds benefit the Church Mission Committee.

Concert suggested donation: Adults $5, Children $Free. Proceeds support future Wooden Fender events. (Wooden Fender is a project of the Warwick Arts Council – Matt Hickler, Jim McRae, and Alan Morgan.)

Upcoming events in the Wooden Fender Winter Concert Series: March 17: Singer/songwriter Richard Chase and Saint Patrick’s Day Dinner by the Trinitarian Congregational Church.

MLK Day Community Service
Loryn Killay and Mark Brighenti Jr., 8th graders from Royalston who attend ARMS, recently participated in Project 351, a day of service bringing youth ambassadors from throughout Massachusetts to Boston to continue the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Both students met and shook hands with Gov. Deval Patrick and then fanned out to volunteer. Loryn worked at the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. towers, a senior apartment complex, making and distributing blankets. Mark sorted, cleaned and refurbished donated toys at Cradles to Crayons, an organization which provides toys to children. Both report that they would like to continue to help others.

After a welcome Christmas break, the students and teachers of RCS have gotten back into the school routine. February is a busy month. The student council has planned a spirit day, where students are asked to “dress like someone you admire”. Check with your child for the date. Also the annual coin wars will be going on throughout February. The PTG have set up the traditional 100th day celebration on February 14th (dependent on snow days). Send your child with shorts, t-shirt and a towel for this day. Following workshops in every classroom, there will be a fabulous concert with drummer Tony Vacca on February 10th @ 6pm featuring all RCS students. This percussive party is sponsored by the Royalston Academy. Everyone is welcome to attend. Mr Webster, our gym teacher, has started his yearly basketball program after school and on Thursdays, sweaty kids come out of the gym exhausted and parched. The other after school clubs will be winding down this month and a special night is planned for all participants to share their experiences. Thanks to everyone who made these popular activities possible. The next PTG meeting will be on the 7th. That’s all the news for this month, and to learn more about it, either call or stop by the school. Thanks!

New RCS web-site: The RCS calendar and other RCS updates are now available on-line at the new school web-site. Go to www.arrsd.org and click on “schools”; then, select Royalston Community School under the drop down menu.

Monty Tech News
Royalston Rep. Mary C. Barclay – mcbarclay@juno.com – 978-249-2598

Several years of class gift money has been designated to replace the sign in front of Monty Tech, and it looks like that will happen this year. Class money and a generous donation from the Monty Tech Foundation will fund the $40,000 project. It will include a masonry pad and surround built by the masonry students, all electrical needs taken care of by electrical students and a full color, illuminated ID cabinet and a full color, LED message cabinet.

The Monty Tech Drama Club is currently preparing Godspell as this year’s production. To defray costs of the production, advertisers are being sought for their playbill. Sponsor opportunities are from $5 for a name listing to $35 for a full page ad. Royalston residents and former Royalston alumni interested in contributing to a full-page ad with well-wishes from Royalston should contact Mary C. Barclay at mcbarclay@juno.com or 978-245-2598. Those who wish to advertise on their own should contact John Bozicas at bozicas_john@montytech.net or 978-345-9200 x 4242. The deadline is February 6, 2012; performance dates are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 2, 3, and 4 (matinee).

The results of Monty Tech’s 17th Annual Golf Tournament are in – approximately $14,000 profit will be added to the Monty Foundation’s endowment, which provides approximately $21,000 in grants and scholarships to Monty Tech students.

Squeak, squeak who is knocking on my sealskin door?
It’s me, dorsal fin, let’s hunt seals on the icy floor.

by Anthony Divoll

Horse: Nay, Nay. I’m very tired, who is knocking on my hay door?
Pony: It’s me, it’s me, let’s go New Year shopping at the store!
Horse: Okay, ok here’s my list: Saddles, carrots and more, more, more. What’s yours?
Pony: Okay, that’s enough, please, no more. I don’t have a list not even a floor.

At the Village School - Open House on Feb. 4

The Village School is hosting an Open House on Saturday February 4th from 10 a.m. to noon. If you are interested in the school for your children, come right at 10, so you can visit all the classrooms, meet all the teachers, visit with current parents and meet alumni. Bring your children - there are activities in all the classrooms for children, so your children will have lots to do. Find out about openings for next year, how to apply, and about financial aid. Coffee, tea and light refreshments are served.

The Village School is an affordable independent school serving children from Preschool through 6th grade, located on Royalston Common, just across from the Post Office. For more information, call (978) 249-3505, or go to www.villageschoolma.org. In addition to hands on, in-depth academic studies, the school focuses on kindness and attention to the individual.

Director Rise Richardson says, “Love of learning, instilled at the Village School at a very young age, flourishes as students engage in strong academic studies that are enhanced and supported by art, music, movement and a dynamic contact with nature. We are a hands-on school; with project-based learning that works with all learning styles. Academics are rigorous and challenging. Each class is immersed in a central theme study (for example, Ancient Greece) for the year, integrated into all of the academics. Village School students are inquisitive, self-directed learners, who actively engage in the world around them. The education here is a ‘value added’ education; children learn Spanish, learn to play recorder, go swimming, work with scientists and artists - what would be after school lessons in other schools - is incorporated in the daily curriculum, without compromising academic learning. In fact, it enhances academic learning.”

If you are considering sending your child to the Village School K-6th, you don’t want to miss this!

Garden Notes

January 22, 2012
Cut me some slack here folks. It is late January, after all, not the most opportune of times to garden in north-central Massachusetts. So I’ll write about the weather. It was quite a run. I designate January 14 as the beginning of winter. Before then we were above freezing all but seven days, the first such day occurring on December 11. Our furnace saw little more activity than the road crews’ plows. The October storm was a blip; there was more rain (8 inches) than snow (2 inches) in November and December. I know, winter may have settled in; on the other hand, it may well be half over.

I did, in fact, take advantage of the conditions, still turning, enriching, and covering beds in December. The garden continued to yield crops: leeks (since pulled), parsnips, scallions, and spinach (since covered). Pesto is a sauce made by pureeing basil, olive oil, garlic, and a few nuts. Basil, of course, was a distant memory but I created a December pesto, substituting a combination of parsley, cilantro, and chervil for the basil. I finally managed some fencing around the kale. Makeshift though it be, it has successfully kept the deer at bay. Even now, kale is available for picking, the garden’s final fresh crop.

And then it was January, the ground still open, the temperatures still moderate. I cut back the raspberry canes, heretofore an early spring undertaking. Well, it felt like early spring and there was no snow to suggest otherwise. And I moved on to fruit tree pruning, another of those early spring undertakings (if I get around to undertaking it). Pruning can be frustrating, a branch is cut and a half-dozen (or more) suckers begin to grow, all of which require pruning the following year. Pruning begets more pruning, not my idea of a good time, especially when I am astride a branch twenty or so feet above the ground.

The balmy weather has provided fringe benefits. I am cutting firewood at a greater rate than I am burning it. The steers remained on pasture, not fed hay in earnest until a week ago. This normally occurs in early November. And I was raking leaves in January. Raking leaves. In January.

February is gardening at its least. Outdoor activity will be limited to hauling in some kale leaves (if we are lucky). Not too much more will be accomplished indoors. There are house plants but I have not been giving them much attention. Some of the Christmas cacti bloomed, you guessed it, at Christmas. A couple of others are only now in bud, clearly a case of arrested development. The orchid cactus is filled with buds, a spectacular display in the making. Two amaryllis bulbs have been set out. An amaryllis flower in late winter can be an awesome sight. The lemon tree is adorned with sixteen lemons, two of which are ready for consumption. Three of the five rosemary plants remain alive. Rosemary is notorious for failing to survive the winter indoors.

The principal ‘gardening’ activity will be the consumption of the food stuffs. The root cellar is clamoring for attention. I have not yet given it. The bushels of carrots, beets, celeriac, rutabaga, radishes, onions, potatoes, leeks, cabbages, and, especially, apples, must be sorted in the time-honored tradition: the best remaining in the root cellar, the less-than-best brought up and prepared, the least-than-best fed out to the steers. This is an ongoing undertaking.

Otherwise, I will be living the life of leisure, temporary though that may be. I like to think I’ve earned it.

A very healthy brown field mouse in Phil Leger’s pick up truck engine compartment ate through the air filter causing the truck to break down and be towed. New air filter installed. It ate through that one too. Last seen heading into fender. Mouse 2, Phil 0. To be continued!

Sixteen-year-old Garrett Hall harvested this mammoth 440-pound black bear during the November 2011 Massachusetts bear season while hunting on his family farm on Beryl Hill. Garrett’s brother Chet raises organic pigs and the bear was frequently seen on the farm eating from the three acres of corn planted as pig feed. Garrett obtained a special bear permit, and shot the bear with a black powder primitive firearm as it was headed toward the corn fields. It was a 70-yard, broadside shot, clean through the shoulder to the lungs. Garrett’s father, Chet, said it took four men to lift the bear into his pickup truck. The bear was checked in and weighed at the Fish & Game station in Belchertown where it was learned only one larger bear was ever shot in the state, weighing 468 pounds. A tractor was used to lift it onto the scales. The Halls said the bear supplied the family with more than 200 pounds of sausage and steaks. A full mount is planned for the bear.
