Select Board Notes

Christine Long, Member

First note: If you are reading this on April 1 before 7 p.m., remember to head for the polls at town hall (Precinct 1) or Whitney Hall (Precinct 2) for the annual town election. The Select Board unanimously recommends that voters vote YES on both Question 1 and Question 2. Together, these override questions represent only a very modest increase in taxes – 53 cents on the tax rate and $95 a year on a house worth the median $180,000 – but together they also put the town on a path toward much better planning for the future.

Second note: The Select Board also urges voters to attend the annual town meeting on Friday, May 10 at 7 p.m.

At this time of this writing, the board is at work on the budget for the coming fiscal year. We thought we were on fairly strong footing until we received an unexpectedly high assessment from Montachusett Regional Technical Vocational School, one that will mean juggling elsewhere in the budget. By contrast, at the time of this writing, the Athol-Royalston Regional School District is proposing a slightly decreased assessment to Royalston. (That number is still tentative, however.) The current draft of the budget includes very modest raises for town employees, firefighters and police officers and very modest increases in operating funds.

Third note: The fire truck that serves South Royalston – and the rest of town, as well as the broader area that Royalston responds to – is almost 33 years old and beyond repair. Fire Chief Keith Newton and the board are exploring options for replacing this truck, but voters at annual town meeting and at one of the special elections later this spring may be asked to approve debt exclusion for a lease/purchase of a new fire truck.

Open Space and Recreation Committee

Seeks New Members

by Paul Montero, Chairperson

The Open Space and Recreation Committee membership has dwindled from seven members to just three. The Committee is actively seeking new members. Here is an opportunity to serve your town. No experience is necessary. Just have a desire to preserve open spaces or be interested in promoting passive recreational activities. We hold public meetings every other month on the second Thursday evening beginning at 7 PM in the Town Hall.

History Corner
Get involved with the Historical Society
Peter Kranik
Love history? Are you one who reads books, magazines and on-line articles dealing with history? Why not join the local historical society and support its efforts to keep the history of Royalston before the people. There is a need for people who are lovers of history to become a part of this organization, which was founded in 1946 to preserve the many articles and items that are part of this community.

The group does not ask much of its members except to join us 4 times a year at meetings to offer input on how to make our town’s history more open to all. Your thoughts, ideas and presence would be of great value to the Society. As the years progress, the membership is advancing in age but are committed to the past that has been so important to us. We know what has been but cannot see the future. So, help your society and join us in its goal. Our next meeting is April 19, 2013, which is an annual pot luck supper and takes place at the home of Peter Kranik, the corner of Winchendon and Stone Road. It begins at 6:30 pm. If you are a lover of history, do come, join us and give us your support.

Common Restoration Group Seeks Information about the Monument on the Common
Does anyone have memories, photographs, information about the installation in the 1940’s of the marble Veterans Memorial on the common in front of the Town Hall? The Bullock family was involved in memory of Calvin Bullock. Was the flag pole with an eagle on top anchored into the monument or did it go all the way through the monument and into the ground.? If you have any information, please contact the Common Restoration Committee’s Clarence Rabideau at 978-249-7691.

Fifty years ago the Town’s “Bicentennial Belles” made costumes and paraded as part of the anniversary celebration. What should happen this time? Come to the next planning meeting on April 4 at 7 pm at town hall to share input.

Royalston Emergency Management Agency
EMD Jim Barclay – ema@Royalston-ma.gov – 978-249-2904
While Royalston is one of the more “communication challenged” areas of Massachusetts, the reality is most residents now have multiple devices (cell phones, tablets, computers) capable of electronic communication across many “channels” (cell phone calls, written e-mails, social media messaging) These devices can often be used when more traditional methods like landlines fail. A few pointers to get you going:

Learn to send updates via text and internet from your mobile phone to your contacts and social media accounts. Cell texting can work where voice does not.

Keep extra phone batteries in a safe place along with either a solar powered or hand crank charger for power outages. A car charger (especially with the USB port for computers, etc.) should be kept in each vehicle.

Program ICE (In Case of Emergency) contacts into your cell phone so emergency personnel can contact those people for you if you are unable to use your phone. Advise ICE contacts and be sure they know of any of your medical or special needs.

Maintain at least one hard-wired phone in your home/office if you have a land-line. They can work for a number of days in power outages; portable phones need electricity.

If you need to leave your home in an emergency, forward your land-line to your cell.

Prepare a family contact sheet with at least one out-of-town contact that may be better to reach family.

For a more complete listing of communications tips and for other ideas don preparedness, check out www.ready.gov.

for a charming and informative presentation on painting conservation. Two interesting take-aways: the portraitist, Ethan Allen Greenwood, was Mrs. Estabrook’s cousin. He was snowbound in Royalston and probably painted these canvases as a wedding present, which took one day each. He painted hundreds of portraits rapidly with a goal of making enough money to collect art. He eventually founded the New England Museum but ran into financial difficulty. Greenwood’s collection was sold and became the foundation of Boston’s Museum of Fine Arts.

Copper Plate Etching Class for Beginners

If you want to invite someone over to see your etchings, first, you have to have etchings...

The library is excited to have Josh Doub offer a copper plate etching class for beginners to be held three consecutive Tuesday evenings, April 16, 23, and 30, from 7:00-9:00 pm at the Town Hall. Josh has a BFA and MFA and trained as a painter. His primary work includes abstract oil paintings. He will be assisted by Lydia Musco, who also has degrees in art and is a sculpture artist.

The class will give an overview of various intaglio printmaking techniques. Participants will design and make a copper plate etching. The class will focus on hard ground line drawing and drypoint. Participants with some experience will also be welcome to experiment with more advanced printmaking techniques (such as aquatint, etc.) during the class.

This class is designed for students ages 14 to adult. Funding for the program for young adults is from the Royalston Academy and for adults from the Friends of the Library. Younger students may be admitted with special permission. We are fortunate to have this opportunity to learn from two very talented young artists. Josh is originally from North Carolina and Lydia was raised in Royalston. They have recently built their home and studio in Royalston. To register for the class and for more information, call the library.

Kids’ Cross Culture Club: The World Comes to the Library

Tools of the Trade – A Botanical Illustrator’s Narrative Accompanied by Classical Guitar

Noted botanical illustrator, Gordon Morrison, will discuss how he goes about drawing in the field, discussing the tools he uses, what he looks for, and how he goes about creating a drawing such as those in Newcomb’s Wildflower Guide on Saturday, April 20 at 7:00 p.m. at the library. Gordon has illustrated several field guides, written and illustrated numerous books, written and illustrated articles for a plethora of magazines, and, of course, drawn extensively. This program will be preceded by a chance to observe the exhibit of drawings while listening to the talented classical guitar artist, Carl Kamp. Refreshments including beer and wine will be served. This program is sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Open Mic - Last Call ( for now)

Phil Leger

The last open mic of the season is April 5th 7-10pm. We have had an excellent season this year. House band for the last night is Royalston’s own “Empty Banks”, featuring Dan Vaccari on drums. In March, we were surprised by guitar virtuoso Carl Kamp picking up the electric guitar and vamping through a “ Ventures” medley backed by the “Gunslingers”. The night was one of the best overall and best attended shows of the series. The Royalston Cultural Council sold out of food items and donations were well received. Get there early and stay to the end for one of the area’s best spots for a fun night out.

Royalston Blues Night
Saturday May 11 at Town Hall

Royalston Blues Night, the year’s most anticipated musical event, will take place this year at 7:00 on Saturday, May 11 at the Royalston Town Hall. The featured band is the spectacular Texas group Littlewolf, just making its appearance on the national scene, with Royalston’s own Scotty Monette on the bass. Littlewolf describes its music as “a unique, dynamic roots/blues/rock explosion,” propelled by Steve Lott’s guitar and Kristi Clanton’s spellbinding voice and slide-steel guitar. You can catch a preview at their website, http://www.littlewolfmusic.com. Melanie and the Blue Shots will be the opening act. As always, Blues Night will feature drinks, snacks, and plenty of chance to dance. Tickets are $10, children free. Tickets are limited – you can reserve yours by calling Lorraine Casinghino at 987-249-5151.

Also, catch Melanie and the Blue Shots:

Milestones:

Donald F. Richards, 87, passed away peacefully on Saturday, February 16, 2013, at his home surrounded by his loving family.

Don was born in Athol, Massachusetts, January 18, 1926, the son of Farrell B. and H. Myrtle (Beers) Richards. He lived in Athol for many years, graduating from Athol High School in 1943 and, since 1980, has resided in Royalston.

Don proudly served in the U.S. Navy during World War II; he worked for the L.S. Starrett Company in sales for 46 years, retiring in 1989. During his career he and his family lived in many different parts of the United States. They spent many memorable summers together on Prince Edward Island. Don enjoyed the outdoors, fishing and was a great music lover, especially of big band music. He played the saxophone in the Minute Tapioca Band, the former Frank Carey Band and the Tri-Tones. Don also loved spending time with his children, grandchildren and relatives throughout Canada. He had a warm smile for everyone he met and his positive attitude was an inspiration.

He leaves his wife Elvia (Robertson) Richards; a son, David Farrell Richards of Athol; two daughters, Diane Stauder and her husband Richard of Royalston and Robbie Currie and her husband John of Orange; six grandchildren, Sarah, Elizabeth, Peter, Luke, Christopher and Leanna along with her husband Joshua and their son Zachary. He was predeceased by his beloved son, Kent Arthur Richards.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to the Athol Congregational Church, Music Fund, 1225 Chestnut Street, Athol, MA 01331.

LBS Memorial Concert

Thank you to Carl Kamp, Rene Lake and Deb Nunes for providing a free classical piano and guitar concert at the ballroom in Patience Bundshuh’s home, the Maples. The spring light slanted through the windows. The music was lovely and reflected real work. The audience was pensive and appreciative. The snacks, as always, were very tasty. This year the concert was dedicated to Amanda Putney. Gerry Chiasson, John and Pat Poor as well as Don Richards were particularly remembered.
At R.C.S. It Is A Busy Month! - again

At R.C.S., April is going to be busy. The Kindergarten is learning more reading skills and such. In D.E.A.R reading, the kindergarteners get to read with their sixth grade buddies on Fridays. In Ms. Drouin’s first grade class, her writers’ tea is coming up on March 22nd, a Friday night. In grade six, some students made projectile extra credit projects and they have been launching them (with eye protection of course.) The AREF-funded band field trip to the Boston Symphony Orchestra, which had been canceled due to a snow storm, has been rescheduled to Tuesday, April ninth. The talent show is also coming up, so be prepared. That is what is going on at R.C.S.

RCS WALK-A-THON April 29
calling all students and parents
(rain date April 30)
A walk-a-thon will be held at The Royalston Community School on Monday, April 29 to supplement a recently awarded AREF grant. The grant was written by the school secretary, Mrs. Lajoie, for the purchase of a wireless sound system to be utilized for an after-school fitness class, hopefully the first of many different forms of movement activities and programs to be offered in the future. Funds received in excess of the amount needed for the system will go toward gym & playground equipment. Students at RCS will receive a “pledge” from sponsors, for any denomination for each lap they walk, or a donation of any amount for their overall participation. Each child that has a sponsor will receive a wrist band. The top-earning class will enjoy a pizza party, and the top-earning student will receive a $25.00 gift certificate for the Gardner Cinema. The school is very excited about this noncompetitive event, promoting health and fitness for all ages. We are in need of sponsors, volunteers, and donations of water. Please call Mrs. Lajoie at RCS if you can help. Time to get moving!!!

Monty Tech News

Royalston Rep. Mary C. Barclay – mbarclay@juno.com – 978-249-2598
Some exciting news – Monty Tech’s Marine JROTC team “Marine Raiders” took SECOND PLACE in the National CyberPatriot finals held last month in Maryland, besting 805 other teams from across the USA. Participants will receive a share of $50,000 in scholarships from CyberPatriot sponsor, Northrop Grumman Foundation. They take away experience with simulated hard-core terrorism computer attacks and contacts with potential future employers.

Some other impressive Monty Tech stats: A full quarter of the class of 2012 - 25% - were immediately employed in a trade or profession upon graduation. More than half - 64% - went on to two and four year colleges to earn degrees to become medical assistants, automotive technologists, nurses, businesspeople, etc. Three percent went on for additional vocational training in areas such as plumbing, electrical, and auto mechanics and five percent entered the military.
What’s Happening at the Village School?

Police Department News, Mary C. Barclay

April brings with it the emergence of motorcycles…and with fuel prices over $3.50 a gallon, more motorcycles than ever are sharing the roads. Motorcyclists need to be especially alert at this time of year as accumulated winter sand on roads may cause some skidding - particularly dangerous at intersections where the choices may be going down or going out into the middle of an intersection. Car and truck drivers – motorcyclists are often closer than you think. Look very carefully before you pull out of an intersection in front of a motorcycle. And really look carefully – look TWICE! More than 40% of all car vs. motorcycle collisions are the result of the car driver turning left in front of a motorcyclist – such was the case when former Royalston Police Officer Dan Wolski was seriously injured in a 2007 collision. An all-too-often heard quote from the driver of a car who runs into a motorcyclist is “I never even saw it!”

The Massachusetts Motorcycle Safety Awareness, in conjunction with Governor Duvall Patrick, have proclaimed March 25 through April 30, 2013 as “Massachusetts Motorcycle Safety Awareness Period.” ALL drivers are asked to use extra caution as the number of motorcyclists on the roadways ramps up over the next month. All registered and insured vehicles are entitled to share the roadway. All drivers encouraged to “Check Twice – Save a Life.”
Garden Notes

Flashback: one year. The last piece of wood was thrown in the furnace (March 7). March temperatures routinely exceeded 50°, often exceeded 60°, and sometimes exceeded 70°. Parsnips were dug on the 11th, garlic emerged on the 15th, and serious garden work (definition: dirt under my fingernails) commenced on the 18th. I was a year younger.

Flash forward: today. Furnace continues to devour wood. Forget about 70° days or 60° days; we have yet to experience a 50° day. Parsnips have not been dug, garlic has not emerged (how would I know, I’d be obliged to haul the snow shovel out to the garden to find out), my fingernails remain clean (sort of). I am a year older.

I hesitate to make any garden predictions for April in light of the fact that none of my March predictions came to pass. The weather will not curtail indoor activity of course. Onions and leeks are up but the peppers, celery/celeriac, parsley, and early flowers have yet to appear, huddled as they are in the warming oven of the wood cook stove. Soon enough, I trust, they will emerge and begin their journey from window sill to window sill to Maureen Blasco’s greenhouse to the garden, freeing up the warming oven for the planting of tomatoes, basil, and more flowers (around the seventh of April). When things finally settle, I will seed the brassicas directly into an outdoor nursery bed (to be transplanted six weeks later), foregoing the struggle of trying to grow them indoors. The planting will require a row cover. I shudder to think of what the flea beetles would do to the seedlings in the absence of one. I may even drop some lettuce seed into the ground and cover them with those ever-handly fish tanks (the poor man’s greenhouse). Early lettuce would be a special treat.

Let’s be optimistic here: the snow will disappear, the soil will dry, the temperatures, if not warm, will at least be moderate, and the peas and spinach will, finally, be planted. Last year the first plantings were on March 20, the second April 4, and the third April 14. I suspect the dates of last year’s third planting may well be the date of this year’s first. Once again, I’ll be setting out the potatoes with the first pea planting, continuing my trend in recent years of starting potatoes earlier and earlier. There is some risk here: a protracted wet spell would increase the risk of the potatoes rotting, but that has not yet occurred and the advantages of an April planting (pre-black flies, stronger plants to withstand the potato beetle invasion, earlier harvests) make the risk worthwhile.

The upside to this temporary lull in garden activities is that I can devote time to mind-wandering. Say what you will about the computer and all it can deliver (and I hear about it every day), it fails utterly in providing sensual pleasures. The garden will provide them aplenty. Sun or rain, warm or cold, still or windy, you will feel them all. Aromas abound. You are using your hands, awakening your tactile senses. At the risk of waxing a bit too philosophical here, there is even pleasure in experiencing the aches and pains of honestly-earned, productive work. The choice is yours. I have chosen...

Wildlife Sightings
This barred owl arrived in Carl Kamp’s backyard around dawn and spent the day on March 16, ignoring the blue jays and crows that didn’t like it. Small birds seemed somewhat oblivious even when it was perched, in the photo, outside the kitchen window looking in curiously. The large flock of over 100 common redpolls has departed only to be replaced with a large flock of over 100 red-wing blackbirds with a few common grackles and cowbirds mixed in.

Signs of spring? A rabbit in winter white with only a few dappled brown patches on its fur bounded across the road near the Bartkus’ home on March 21. My dog got skunked on March 6. Noisy geese tried to land on the sunrise pink swamp on March 26, but it was still frozen and they skittered away.
